

How to stop a mine: Lessons from Latin America

By Tom Gatehouse

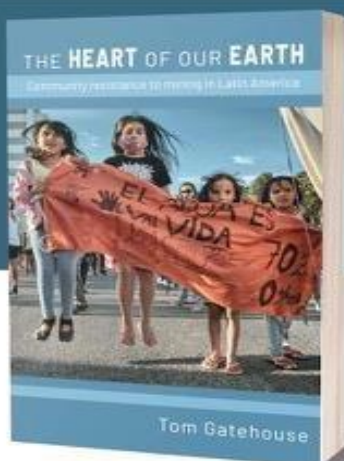

7pm Friday 17th May

Carleen Village Hall

Protect Wheal Vor & GWVCEG are delighted to host author and researcher Tom Gatehouse for a unique talk on the modern reality of mining and how it can affect our environment and our communities.

The evening will include a talk and slide show detailing Tom's experiences in Argentina and Brazil, with practical insight into how communities can and do successfully resist mining

There will be tea & coffee with donations to GWVCEG

THE HEART OF OUR EARTH

Community resistance to mining in Latin America

Tom Gatehouse

Written in clear, non-technical language, The Heart of Our Earth is for students, academics, activists, journalists, and anyone who has ever wondered about the true costs of the metals which increasingly power our lives.

Order your print copy at practicalactionpublishing.com

Mining has brought about unprecedented social and environmental changes across Latin America. Resistance throughout the region has taken on very different forms: from roadblocks to research; from sabotage to street theatre. While some communities have paid a heavy price for their opposition, others have achieved some impressive victories.

The Heart of Our Earth tells their story: how the mining industry has affected them, how they have fought back, and their visions for fairer and more sustainable futures.

Publish date: 15 January 2023
9781909014145 Paperback £24.95 | $37.95 | €31.95
9781909014169 Hardback £62.95 | $94.95 | €78.95
9781909014152 ebook £11.99 | $17.99 | €14.99
www.practicalactionpublishing.com

